

Dimitrios Theodoropoulos was born in Athens in 1976. He graduated from "The Experimental School of the University of Athens" in 1994. Afterward, he entered the department Of Physics in Crete and graduated with an expertise title in "Microelectronics". He completed his thesis in "Wireless Networks IEEE 802.11". He has a diploma from IEK SBIE as "Assistant of Radiologist". This period he is completing his MSc in "Hellenic Mediterranean University", in the Department of Informatics. Due to his passion for Medicine, he followed a career in Medical centers as a Radiologist's assistant. He worked in Bioiatriki", "Medical Center of Crete (Affidea)", "Ygeia Lasithiou", "Diagnosis Rethimnou", and "Asklipieio". He has experience in mammography, classic X-Ray department, salpingography, C arm in surgeries, EEG,DEXA, and MRI. His scientific interests are Image Processing, Medical Imaging, Deep Learning, and Machine Learning. In his free time, he builds musical instruments as ouds, electric guitars, baroque mandolins, etc. He is also a guitarist and composer of his group.